Retraction and Apology to Michael Mann

In 2011 and 2012, the Frontier Centre for Public Policy published on its website, and in a series of letters to our supporters and others, certain untrue and disparaging accusations which impugned the character of Dr. Michael Mann, a climate scientist with Pennsylvania State University.

Although The Frontier Centre for Public Policy still does not see eye to eye with Dr. Mann on the subject of global warming and climate change, we now accept that it was wrong to publish allegations by others that Dr. Mann did not comply with ethical standards and wrong to suggest that Dr. Mann was guilty of any dishonesty concerning his 1998 and 1999 research which produced the so-called 'hockey-stick' temperature graph.

The Frontier Centre hereby unreservedly retracts such allegations and apologizes to Dr. Michael Mann for any embarrassment and distress caused by our previous publications.

Dr. Mann has graciously accepted our apology and retraction.
